CUPID'S ARROW.

—On Tuesday night, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Dickson, the wedding of Miss Katherine Randolph Blanton and Mr. J. Samuel Head, Jr., of Jackson, was solemnized. Only the immediate friends and relatives of the bride were present, but it was one of the prettiest home weddings ever in Paris.

The color scheme was pink and white and was carried out in every detail of the decorations, which were very artistic.

The bridesmaids were Miss Sarah Shackelford, of Richmond; Miss May Escott, of Shelbyville; Miss Lacy Irvine, of Bowling Green and Miss Eddie Spears, of this city.

The gowns were of white silk mull, with pink sashes and they carried wreaths of smilax, tied with pink tulle.

Miss Lizzette Dickson, niece of the bride, was the maid of honor. Her gown was of pink crepe de chine and lace and she carried an armful of pink roses.

The bride looked very sweet and attractive in an exquisite gown of white panne crepe and Duchess lace, with a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Mr. Mack Clark, of Lexington, was the other attendant.

Dr. L. H. Blanton, father of the bride, performed the ceremony, assisted by Dr.
Rutherford.

After the ceremony, a very delightful lunch was served. The bride's table was round and twelve were seated. The cloth was of white tulle over pink silk. Ropes of smilax and streamers of tulle were suspended from the chandelier to the sides of the table. In the center was a large cut glass vase, filled with pink roses. Silver candelabras, with pink shades and cut glass bon bon dishes with pink and white rosebud mints combined to make a most beautiful table. The place cards were hand-painted Cupids, with the gold monograms.

The bride presented her maids with dainty gold "good luck" pins.

It was an interesting fact that Tuesday was the anniversary of the marriage of the bride's father and mother, and that Dr. Rutherford, who assisted in the ceremony, was a groomsmen upon that occasion.

Mrs. and Mr. Head left on the 9:45 train for an extended Eastern trip.

AMUSEMENTS.

—F. R. Hallam's elaborate revival of "Damon and Pythias" will be presented at the Grand Opera House in Paris on October 23. This production is heralded as one of the big things of the present season, and unusual interest is being taken in the event. It will be presented with entirely new and magnificent scenery, specially painted for the production—every scene for each of the five acts being carried—and the acting company is said to be the best that has ever been seen in the play.

—The following attractions are booked for the near future at the Grand, in this city: "The Two Johns," Oct. 20th;
"Damon and Pythias," Oct. 23d;
"Alice of Old Vincennes," Oct. 26th;
"The Devil's Auction," Nov. 3d.

—One of the most notable attractions that will appear at the Grand, in this city, late in the season, is that of Miss Adelaide Thurston, in the play of "Polly Primrose." Notable in the company are Mr. and Mrs. James R.
McCann and Miss Pearl Hammond, all of this city. The company and play are highly spoken of wherever they have appeared and they will meet with a warm reception when they appear here.

Wanted.

We would like to ask, through the columns of your paper, if there is any person who has used Green's August Flower, for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and Liver Trouble that has not been cured—and we also mean their results, such as sour stomach, fermentation of food, habitual constiveness, nervous dyspepsia, headaches, despondent feelings, sleeplessness—in fact any trouble connected with the stomach or liver? This medicine has been sold for many years in all civilized countries, and we wish to correspond with you and send you one of our books free of cost. If you never tried August Flower, try a 25 cent bottle first. We have never known of its failing. If so, something more serious is the matter with you. The 25 cent size has just been introduced this year. Regular size 75 cents. W. T. Brooks.

G. G. GREEN,
Woodbury, N. J.

Caution!

This is not a gentle word—but when you think how liable you are not to purchase the only remedy that has had the largest sale of any medicine in the world since 1868 for the cure and treatment of Consumption and Throat and Lung troubles without losing its great popularity all these years, you will be thankful we called your attention to Booshee's German Syrup. There are so many ordinary cough remedies made by druggists and others that are cheap and good for light colds perhaps, but for severe Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup—and especially for Consumption, where there is difficult expectoration and coughing during the nights and mornings, there is nothing like German Syrup. The 25 cent size has just been introduced this year. Regular size 75 cents.—W. T. Brooks.

SUBMARINE VESSEL.

The Shark Arose and Rammed the Torpedo Boat Dahlgren.

New York, Oct. 8.—The submarine torpedo boat Shark during a trial at Greenport, L. I., Wednesday, rammed the torpedo boat Dahlgren, which with her crew of seven men, barely escaped sinking. Junior Lieut. C. A. Nelson took the Shark out for a trial and steamed out into the middle of the bay making several quick dives. When she reached the opposite shore she headed back for a long spin under water. The boat poked her nose under the surface and dived down 58 feet. It was planned to run three and one-half miles an hour. Those on shore who figured when she would rise were becoming alarmed when she did not appear, when suddenly she rose less than 20 feet from the Dahlgren, which was lying at the dock.

Lieut. Nelson signalled to reverse her engines but her headway was too strong and she crashed into the port side of the Dahlgren, lying at the pier. Water immediately rushed into the Dahlgren and she settled alarmingly. The sailors rushed for a collision mat, a large piece of water-tight canvas, which was placed over the gap where the water was rushing in. The steam pump was set to working and after half an hour's hard work, got control of the water.

An examination showed that a hole four feet long had been torn through the plates just aft of the engine room. The only mark on the Shark was the tearing of the paint from her ram-like bow. Lieut. Nelson said afterward that the strong ebb tide made the Shark momentarily uncontrollable. He had figured to run to the surface a short distance from the Dahlgren and prove the Shark's ability to run close to an enemy and then back quickly away.

THE MILITARY ACADEMY.

Annual Report of Col. A. L. Mills, the Superintendent.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Col. A. L. Mills, superintendent of the United States military academy, in his annual report says that the health of the cadets and the command generally throughout the year has been very good, influenza being the only prevalent disease. The efforts inaugurated last year to combat malarial fever by destroying mosquitoes has been continued without relaxation and with excellent results. No cases of this fever have occurred so far this summer.

"The discipline of the cadets," says Col. Mills, "as manifested in their conduct and at drill and in military exercises and attention to duty is satisfactory. There has been no relaxation of the efforts made to enforce the regulations concerning hazing, and it is a pleasure to state that no departures worthy of notice from the spirit of these regulations have occurred during the past summer."

DEPARTMENT OF THE EAST.

Gen. Corbin Will Relieve Gen. Chaffee on October 20.

Washington, Oct. 8.—The recent orders issued at the war department relieving Maj. Gen. Corbin from duty in this city as assistant to the chief of staff, and assigning him to the command of the department of the east at New York, as the relief of Maj. Gen. Chaffee, who is transferred to Washington for duty as assistant to the chief of staff, have been amended so as to provide that the orders shall take effect on or before November 1. With that limitation the exact date of the change has been left to the convenience of the two officers concerned. Gen. Corbin said Wednesday that it was not likely the change would take effect much before October 20.

FRED W. GUITEAU'S WILL.

He Leaves a Large Sum to Cornell University.

Irrington, N. Y., Oct. 8.—The will of Frederick W. Guiteau, filed Wednesday, bequeaths $100,000 outright to Cornell university. The income of $40,000 and the use of the Irvington estate is bequeathed to his sister, Mary G. Howe, during her life. After disposing of amounts ranging from $500 to $5,000 to 20 relatives, the residue, in addition to the $100,000 gift, is left to Cornell university. The value of the estate is estimated at more than $1,000,000.

SCHEME TO IMPORT COOLIES.

An Inspector of Immigration Is Under Arrest.

Manila, Oct. 8.—As the result of the unearthing by Collector of Customs Shuster of a scheme to bring in Chinese coolies under the guise of merchants, John T. Miller, former inspector of immigration, is under arrest and a warrant has been issued for Inspector W. D. Ballantyne, who is now in China. Among the papers secured by Collector Shuster is a contract signed by Miller and Ballantyne regarding a division of profits.

War Declared on Union Tailors.
Chicago, Oct. 8.—The Merchant Tailors' Protective association, composed of manufacturing tailors of the country, declared war on the Journeymen Tailors' Union of America and will hereafter refuse to deal with union journeymen tailors.

Yale Defeated Wesleyan.

New Haven, Ct., Oct. 8.—Yale ran up a big score in defeating Wesleyan at football Wednesday, making 33 points to the visitor's nothing. The game was marked by no sensational plays.

THE TWO GOVERNORS.

Durbin, of Indiana, and Beckham, of Kentucky, Meet.

They Are Visiting the Camps of the Brown and Blue Armies at West Point, Ky.—Exchanged Courtesies.

Camp Young, West Point, Ky., Oct. 8.—At the last moment Wednesday the elements again caused the postponement of the division review, the one dress parade feature of the maneuvers for combined regulars and militia. A violent wind and rain storm which came up Wednesday afternoon turned the parade ground into a sea of mud so deep as to render it impossible for the commands to have maintained presentable alignments even had the storm abated.

Had the review taken place it would have been graced by the presence of the governors of Kentucky and Indiana. Gov. Durbin has been in camp with the Indiana troops since last Saturday evening.

Gov. Beckham arrived from Louisville at noon Wednesday and found two troops of the Seventh cavalry lined up ready to escort him to the camp of the Kentucky brigade. The 14th battery of field artillery fired a salute of 17 guns after which Gov. Beckham inspected the Kentucky militia drawn up in camp to receive him.

To the astonishment of many Gov. Durbin called upon Gov. Beckham in the Kentucky camp. The two governors exchanged courtesies and the Indiana governor was cordially received.

Since the arrival of the state troops there have been two or three instances of marked disorder precipitated by crowds of unruly men. Numerous cases of pillaged hen roosts and the like have been reported. "The Midway," a line of restaurants, cane racks, etc., near camp, was looted by nearly two hundred state troops who either destroyed or stole several hundred dollars worth of property. An investigation of the affair is being made and penitentiary sentences are threatened for the ring leaders if any are caught. Most of the outbreaks have been traced to the men of two militia brigades. The conduct of the regular troops has been uniformly good.

All of the national guardsmen in camp have been mustered for pay roll and will be paid off on the day before they break camp.

The heavy rains during the past three days have made the fields and roads so soft as to impede the maneuvers. Another 24 hours of wet weather would make a great deal of the country impassable for artillery and difficult for rapid operations by infantry.

TORNADOES IN KANSAS.

Three People Killed, Two Fatally Injured and 14 Others Injured.

Emporia, Kan., Oct. 8.—Three persons were killed outright, two fatally injured and 14 others more or less seriously hurt, with enormous property damage is the net result of tornadoes that prevailed near Hamilton, Greenwood county, and near Aliceville, in Coffey county, Kan., Tuesday night. The town of Aliceville, which has 200 inhabitants, was practically demolished. Wires were prostrated and the extent of the storm was not learned until late Wednesday. The list of casualties may yet be incomplete. Heavy rain and wind storms were general all over Central Kansas Tuesday night. With the exception of those near Hamilton and Aliceville and vicinity, however, only minor damage was done.

VOLCANO OF MAUNA LOA.

A Vast Column of Smoke With Fire Below Ascends.

Honolulu, Oct. 8.—The volcano of Mauna Loa, on the island of Hawaii, is again in a state of activity. The eruption began Tuesday at noon and was reported here Wednesday. When the ship Ormphy, from New Castle, passed the island of Hawaii Tuesday from the summit of the crater a vast column of smoke with fire below ascended. The appearance of the lava flow at Kilauea is normal with mild activity.

Prohibition National Convention.

Kansas City, Kan., Oct. 8.—One hundred prohibitionists representing Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Indian territory, Arkansas, Nebraska and Colorado Wednesday unanimously decided in favor of holding the national prohibition convention next year in Kansas City.

Gen. Young's Daughter Weds.

Washington, Oct. 8.—A distinguished company witnessed the marriage Wednesday afternoon at St. Thomas church of Miss Elizabeth Young, daughter of Lieut. Gen. Sam B. M. Young, chief of staff of the army, and Capt. J. R. R. Hannay, of the 22d infantry.

A Million Dollar Map.

Berlin, Oct. 8.—The geologists and cartographers employed by the Saxon government have completed a map at a cost of $1,000,000. It is on a scale of 1 to 25,000 and is in 123 sheets. It shows in outline every part of Saxony.

A Royal Wedding.

Darmstadt, Oct. 8.—In presence of a notable gathering which included an emperor, an empress, a king and two queens, the marriage of Princess Alice of Battenberg and Prince Andreas of Greece was celebrated Wednesday.

IT IS A TOTAL WRECK.

Trial of Prof. Langley's Airship Was a Failure.

Widewater, Va., Oct. 8.—The 60 foot steel built flying machine, the climax of years of exhaustive study in the efforts of Prof. Samuel F. Langley, secretary of the Smithsonian institute, to solve the problem of mechanical flight in midair, was launched Wednesday and the experiment carefully planned and delayed for months proved a complete failure.

The launching took place at 12:15 o'clock Wednesday afternoon from the superstructure of the house boat moored in the Potomac river two miles from this place. Fifteen minutes before that everything was cleared for action. Prof. Manley was clad in his aeronautical suit of white duck trousers and cork lined jacket. Secretary Langley, who has visited the scene of the test but infrequently since the houseboat carrying his device and his assistants was taken to Widewater, did not witness the failure of his machine Wednesday, but remained in Washington where he awaited the result. When all was ready Prof. Manley took his place in the navigator's car which was situated close to the gasoline motor. This motor was well below the principal surface of the machine. It was of the explosion type, weighed 200 pounds and was designed to generate approximately 28 horse power. Long rods connected it with the propellers whose blades were about three feet long. The framework of Prof. Manley's car was covered with canvas. Prof. Manley started the motor, which worked well, the revolutions reaching 1,200 a minute. The big machine moved easily along the 70 foot track, in the launching apparatus and took the air fairly well. A five mile breeze was blowing and for a moment the machine stood up well, but its failure was immediately apparent. It turned gradually downward. The declination was so positive that Prof. Manley saw at a glance that but few movements of the second hand of the stop watch he wore on his left knee would be recorded before both he and the scientific ship would be floundering in the waters of the Potomac. Just before the machine struck the water he shut off his motor, which had worked admirably at the outset. The machine disappeared beneath the waves, but only momentarily. The machine is a total wreck.

OIL TANKS EXPLODED.

An Engine Dashed Into a String of Loaded Oil Cars.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 8.—The engine of a C. B. & Q. passenger train which entered the yards at Beardstown at the rate of 20 miles an hour left the main track through an open switch and dashed into a string of six loaded oil tanks on the side track. Two of the oil tanks exploded, setting fire to the cars and sheds nearby. The mail car of the passenger train was entirely consumed and the train is an almost total wreck, as it stood in the midst of the flames for hours. All the train crew and passengers escaped. Two cars of horses and mules which stood near the exploding oil tanks were wrecked and all the animals instantly killed.

THE STRIKERS WON.

The Chicago Typothetae Agreed to the Demands of Press Feeders.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—The Chicago Typothetae sued for peace Wednesday night when President Higgins, of the International Printing Pressmen's union, failed to live up to his promise to furnish sufficient press feeders to man the presses of the employing printers. A committee of two was appointed to open negotiations with Franklin Union of Press Feeders for a settlement and an agreement was reached in a few minutes whereby the Franklin feeders returned to work Thursday in all the Typothetae offices excepting where girls are employed to feed presses.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON'S CUP.

Perpetual Challenge Trophy For All the Nations of the World.

New York, Oct. 8.—Sir Thomas Lipton is to prove his ardor for international yacht racing. He desires to put the constructive ability of Herreshoff and other designers of both the old and new world to a test and also to try out the seamanship of sailors of all nations in crossing the ocean. A $2,500 cup, a perpetual challenge trophy for which the nations of the world may compete annually, is to be the offer of the Irish baronet who has thrice accepted defeat at the hands of American yachtsmen.

Disastrous Forest Fires.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 8.—Dispatches received Wednesday morning from Meridian, Miss., state disastrous forest fires are reported from sections north and east of Meridian, as a result of the recent severe drought. Damage to fences and timber is very heavy.

Leaned Too Far Out His Cab.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 8.—Robert Shaver, of Scranton, engineer on the New Jersey Central "Flyer," was killed Wednesday night near Mauch Chunk. He was struck by a signal arm and thrown from his engine down an embankment.

Gen. J. P. Sanger Arrives.

San Francisco, Oct. 8.—Gen. J. P. Sanger, former chief of staff of Gen. Chaffee, but latterly in charge of the census work in the Philippine islands, has arrived from Manila on his way to Washington.

Couldn't See It.

A trifling technicality was the basis of the argument, and, after deciding upon a referee, each man stated his contention, relating the Chicago Post.

"I don't see the difference," said the referee.

"You don't!" cried the argumentative one.

"No, I don't."

"Well, now, see here." And each one very carefully stated his position again.

"Now do you see it?" they asked.

"No."

"Well, you are dull." But, nevertheless, each one went over the ground again.

"How about it now?" they asked.

"I still fail to see it," was the reply.

"Do you ever expect to see it?" one of them asked, sarcastically.

"Not unless you put it in writing," he replied. "It's all a matter of words, and one can't see the spoken word."

Thereupon they stopped the argument long enough to throw the referee over the top of a building.

Easy to Get.

Pierpont, O., Oct. 5th.—Remarkable indeed is the experience of Mr. A. S. Turner, a man now over seventy years of age, and whose home is here.

For many years this old gentleman had suffered with a very unpleasant form of kidney trouble, a kind that very often bothers aged people. He would have to get up four or five times every night, and this very tiresome disease was fast wearing him out.

At last after having almost made up his mind that he would never be able to get relief, he stumbled over a medicine which relieved him almost immediately, and has cured him permanently. It is so very easy to get and so simple that Mr. Turner thinks everyone should know it. Every dealer in the country has it, and all you have to do is to ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills. Mr. Turner says:

"I can heartily and honestly recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills, for they cured me. Several others in the family have used them, too, and always with the best results. I think they have no equal."

Right Back!

When off duty Prof. Richards, of Yale, enjoys a joke, and his pupils often come to him when they have heard a new one. He adds to the fun sometimes with a witicism of his own. Such was the case when one of the students perpetrated the following antiquity: "Professor, wouldn't you like a good recipe for catching rabbits?" "Why, yes," replied the professor. "What is it?" "Well, you crouch down behind a thick stone wall and make a noise like a turnip," answered the youth, giggling in ecstasy. Quick as a flash came the reply: "Oh, a better way than that would be for you to go and sit quietly in a bed of cabbage heads and look natural."—Chicago Chronicle.

A Good Thing.

Every issue of The Four-Track News makes it easier for ticket agents and ticket sellers to secure passengers for distant parts of the country, for the reason that every article and every illustration in The Four-Track News is an inducement for readers to travel and see what a marvelous variety of scenery and climate our own country possesses. The more these facts are impressed upon the average person, the more certain he or she is to have a desire to travel. Therefore, The Four-Track News is not only in the interest of all the transportation lines and hotels, it also bears out the legend of its title page of "An Illustrated Magazine of Travel and Education."—From the Buffalo Commercial.

Modern Sherlock.

The modern Sherlock was told to spot the suspected man.

"Well," said Sherlock, "I have at least found that his wife is away on a vacation."

"How did you find that out?" asked the mystified friend.

"He is wearing a safety pin instead of a suspender button."—Chicago Daily News.

HERBERT'S FUNERAL.

Body of the Ambassador Laid in a Flower-Lined Grave.

Memorial Services Were Held in Washington Attended By the President, His Family and Many Other Distinguished Persons.

London, Oct. 7.—Funeral services over the remains of the late British ambassador to the United States, Rt. Hon. Sir Michael H. Herbert, were held Tuesday in Marlborough House chapel, adjoining St. James palace. Special seats were reserved for members of the diplomatic corps.

The king was represented by the earl of Suffolk. The mourners included the earl of Pembroke, Lord Herbert of Lea, the earl of Durham, Earl de Gray, the duke of Beaufort, Viscount Newport, representing Premier Balfour; Charles Ardington, representing the foreign office; representatives of the various embassies and legations in London, Arthur Ponsonby and Robert Golet.

The service was conducted by the archdeacon of Wiltshire, Canon Mead and Canon Oliver. The music included Mendelssohn's and Chopin's funeral marches and an interlude specially composed by Sir Hubert Perry, director of the Royal college of music. The body was laid in a flower-lined grave in the church yard.

Washington, Oct. 7.—Memorial services in memory of Rt. Hon. Sir Michael H. Herbert were held in St. John's church Tuesday.

Precisely at 12 o'clock President Roosevelt, accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt, Miss Roosevelt, Secretary Loeb and Col. Symons and Commander Cowles, respectively his military and naval aides, entered the church. They were received by the distinguished assemblage standing, while the thrilling cadences of Chopin's funeral march pealed from the organ.

The President and Mrs. Roosevelt were met by Arthur S. Raikes, first secretary of the British embassy, who had been designated by King Edward as his personal representative at the services. They were shown into the first pew on the right side of the main tier of pews and directly in front of the chancel. At the left of Mr. Raikes sat Maj. Maude, military secretary of Lord Minto, governor general of Canada, and his personal representative.

Opposite the main tier of pews sat R. T. Wilson, father of Lady Herbert, accompanied by his daughters, Mrs. Ogden Golet and Mrs. Cornelius Vandervilt, and his sons, M. Orme Wilson and R. T. Wilson, Jr. Across the aisle to the right of the president the pews were occupied by Adm. Dewey and Lieut. Gen. Young and their staffs. The members of the diplomatic corps occupied pews directly back of the president, while officers of the army, navy and marine corps occupied seats in the body of the church.

THE MORMON CHURCH.

Elder G. A. Smith Succeeds the Late Apostle Brigham Young.

Salt Lake, Utah, Oct. 7.—At Tuesday's session of the semi-annual conference of the Mormon church, Elder George A. Smith was chosen to fill the vacancy in the council of 12 apostles caused by the death, several months ago, of Apostle Brigham Young. The new apostle is a son of Apostle John Henry Smith, and is the present receiver of the United States land office in Utah. He is a native of Salt Lake and about 40 years old.

DEPUTY COLLECTOR ARRESTED

He is Charged With Abstracting Money From a Package.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 7.—Isaac N. Ross, a former special deputy collector, was arrested here Tuesday by Col. Porter of Port Garland, on a charge of abstracting $600 from a package containing $3,000, which he had taken to the express office September 27 to be sent to the sub-treasury, Philadelphia. Ross has since been missing. Bail was fixed at $5,000. He had been employed in the collector's office for 12 years.

ITALIAN LABORERS.

Several Hundred to Be Brought to Birmingham, Ala.

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 7.—S. Calanzano, the representative of the Italian consul in this city, has gone to New Orleans for the purpose of conferring with the agents of the Italian Steamship Co., looking to the bringing of several hundred Italian laborers to this district now on board a steamer directly from Italy, which will arrive at New Orleans in a few days.

Convention of Royal Arch Masons. Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 7.—The 32d triennial convention of the general grand chapter of Royal Arch Masons of the United States opened Tuesday. The secretary's report shows the membership numbers 219,965.

Nominated For Governor. Providence, R. I., Oct. 7.—The republicans of Rhode Island met here in annual convention, formed a permanent organization and selected a ticket which is headed by Col. Samuel P. Colt, of Bristol, president of the United States Rubber Co.

To Investigate Alleged Boodling. Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 7.—An investigation of alleged boodling on the board of education of Kansas City, Kan., promises to end in sensational disclosures. A grand jury may be asked to probe the matter.

RUSSIA AND JAPAN.

Fleet and Army of Both Powers Ready For Emergencies.

Yokohama, Oct. 7.—With the approach of October 8 the nominal date for Russia's evacuation of Manchuria, great tension is observable among the Japanese populace, but in diplomatic circles it is reaffirmed that hopefulness prevails of an amicable settlement of the imbroglio between Russia and Japan on the basis of minor concessions by Russia in Corea and Manchuria, though officials do not profess to expect that the evacuation of Manchuria will be effected on the exact date named.

Baron von Rosen, the Russian minister to Japan, has returned here from a conference with the Viceroy Alexieff at Port Arthur, and had a short conference with Baron Komura, the Japanese foreign minister, on October 3. Baron von Komura has since given out a hopeful interview, but the Japanese minister for war and navy thereafter had a long conference with the emperor, Marquis Ito, president of the privy council, and Viscount Katsu, the premier, indicating that preparations are going on to meet any eventuality. The fleet and the army are both without question in readiness and large supplies for both the army and navy have been accumulated. The arsenals have been quietly at work for a long time past and the defenses have been minutely inspected.

Popular feeling in Japan is exasperated at Russia's dilatory tactics, and the excitement has been aggravated by the sensational press, which is constantly circulating rumors of fresh Russian aggressions. Many of these are of the most circumstantial character and are calculated to inflame public opinion. The officials deprecate these reports, which, it is believed in some quarters, emanate from Russian sources with the object of forcing Japan's hand.

The Japanese statesmen remain calm. Japan apparently considers herself capable of dealing with Russia single-handed. It is true that England is supporting Japan strongly at Peking and Seoul, Corea, but it is thought here that England and France desire peace at any price.

SULTAN'S ROYAL EDICT.

The Right to Excavate at Bismya, Babylonia, Given.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—The royal edict granting the University of Chicago the right to excavate at Bismya in Babylonia has just been issued by the sultan of Turkey, according to a cablegram received by President Harper Tuesday. The edict or "firman" is the result of negotiations carried on at the port by President Harper. The work will begin at an early date, it was announced, under the supervision of Robert Francis Harper, professor of Babylonian and Assyrian languages at the university.

AN ARTIST'S WORK.

Can Not Be Altered Without His Consent With Name Attached.

New York, Oct. 7.—It has been decided by the supreme court that an artist's work can not be altered without his consent and at the same time have his name attached to it. William DeLeftwich Dodge brought an action to prevent the Allied Arts Co. and the Tiffany studios from interfering in any manner or making changes in four mural paintings executed by him, now in the lobby of the King Edward hotel, Toronto, Ont.

FRED SEYMOUR BARRINGTON.

Files a Motion to Quash Indictments Returned Against Him.

St. Louis, Oct. 7.—A motion was filed in the Clayton circuit court Tuesday by Frederick Seymour Barrington to quash the indictments recently returned against him by the grand jury, charging him with the murder of Jas. P. McCann. In the motion to quash it is alleged that the indictment does not set forth or charge facts to constitute a criminal offense.

LIGHTNING STRUCK TENT.

Two Men Killed and Twenty Others Were Badly Shocked.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 7.—Lightning struck a tent in the Rock Island railroad camp at Eleventh street and Muncie boulevard in Kansas City, Kan., during a violent storm Tuesday night, killed two men, injured five others and shocked all the other occupants of the tent, about 15 in number. The injured will recover. The other 80 men in the camp were not hurt.

Government's Contention Sustained.

Washington, Oct. 7.—The court of appeals of the District of Columbia sustained the contention of the government in the case of Frank D. Edwards vs. the secretary of war. Edwards was appointed a lieutenant of artillery and claimed that he should take rank from the date of appointment instead of according to previous service.

Negro Shot to Death.

Sheridan, Ark., Oct. 7.—Ed McCollum, colored, was taken from the county jail here Tuesday morning by a masked mob, tied to a tree in the courthouse yard and shot to death. The Negro seriously wounded Constable Crutchfield.

Has Cancer of the Face.

New York, Oct. 7.—Eduardo Yero, a member of the Cuban cabinet, was a passenger on the steamer Mexico, which arrived Tuesday from Havana. He will submit to an operation in New York for a cancer of the face.

HON. W. S. BISSELL DEAD

Was Postmaster General During Cleveland's Term.

During Latter Part of His Illness Messages of Inquiry Were Received From the Ex-President and Members of Cabinet.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Wilson S. Bissell, former postmaster general, died at 10:15 o'clock Tuesday night. At about noon he sank into a deep sleep, and it was with difficulty that he was aroused at intervals during the afternoon for nourishment and medicine. The end came easily and peacefully. Dr. Dewitt Sherman, the physician who has been attending him during his recent illness, and members of the family were at his bedside.

Mr. Bissell suffered with complications thought to be akin to Bright's disease, although not well understood. On June 1 Mr. Bissell's trouble became so serious that he was sent to New York to consult specialists. It was thought an operation would be performed, but on examination the specialists decided that it would be better for the patient first to rebuild his health. He was sent to his summer home, Bar Harbor, where he spent several weeks. He spent most of the time there in bed and it was realized that his case was hopeless. In September he returned to Buffalo. Some important legal matters in which he was interested were disposed of and Mr. Bissell was again forced to bed. He suffered no pain, sleeping most of the time.

When awake his mind was always clear and he conversed with members of the family and the physicians. During the latter part of his illness numerous messages of inquiry were received from former President Cleveland and members of the cabinet in which Mr. Bissell served as postmaster general.

COKE OVENS SHUTTING DOWN.

This Action Is Due to the Slump in the Pig Iron Market.

Connellsville, Pa., Oct. 7.—A careful estimate of the number of coke ovens that have been blown out in the Connellsville fields during the past week is placed at 3,000. O. W. Kennedy, general superintendent of the H. C. Frick Coke Co., Tuesday stated that during the latter part of last week and the first part of this week 2,000 ovens belonging to the Frick company had been closed down. Besides this it is estimated that fully 1,000 more ovens belonging to the W. J. Rainey Co. and independent concerns throughout the region have been blown out. Mr. Kennedy in discussing the shutdown stated that it was due to the slump in the pig iron market, which he believes will be only temporary and that the ovens will be going again in a short time.

FOR NON-PAYMENT OF TAXES.

Russell Sage Farm and Andre Monument Property Sold.

Nyack, N. Y., Oct. 7.—A farm owned by Russell Sage, at Sickletown, Rockland county, was sold at the county tax sale Tuesday for non-payment of taxes, amounting to $113. It was bought in by the county.

The county also bought in the Andre monument property at Tappan, where Cyrus W. Field erected a monument to mark the spot of Maj. Andre's execution. After Mr. Field's death his heirs refused to pay the taxes on the property.

SUDDENLY SUMMONED.

Gen. Robert N. Pearson Dropped Dead of Heart Disease.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Gen. Robert N. Pearson, assistant city paymaster, dropped dead of heart disease in his office in the city hall Tuesday.

The decedent entered the civil war as a private and came home with a brevet title of brigadier general, in command of the old regiment once commanded by John A. Logan. He was 63 years of age.

Big Deal in Oil Property.

Pittsburg, Oct. 7.—J. C. McKinney, of Titusville, representing the Standard Oil Co., Tuesday closed a deal with the representatives of the Devonian Oil Co., whereby the former comes into possession of all the latter's producing property in Allegheny and Butler counties, on which there are a large number of wells. The consideration was $300,000.

Senator Platt to Marry.

New York, Oct. 7.—Hon. Thomas Collier Platt, senior United States senator for the state of New York, has made the formal announcement that he is to be married October 16 to Mrs. Lillian T. Janeway, of Washington. Senator Platt has been a widower since February 13, 1901.

Wild West Show Demolished.

Mendota, Ill., Oct. 7.—A tornado struck this place Tuesday night and did much damage north of here. A wild west show exhibiting here was demolished, four of its horses killed and a number of Indians and cowboys slightly injured.

An Extraditable Offense.

St. Louis, Oct. 7.—Circuit Attorney Folk departed Tuesday night for Washington where he will confer with President Roosevelt about the advisability of having bribery made an extraditable offense.

THE New York World

Thrice-a-Week Edition.

Read Wherever the English Language is Spoken.

The Thrice-a-Week World was a brilliant success in the beginning and has steadily grown ever since. Time is test of all things, and has set its seal of approval on the Thrice-a-Week World, which is widely circulated in every State and Territory of the Union, and wherever there are people who can read our mother tongue.

This paper for the coming winter and the year 1903, will make its news service, if possible, more extensive than ever. All events of importance, no matter where they happen, are reported accurately and promptly.

The subscriber for only one dollar a year, gets three papers every week and more general reading than most great dailies can furnish at five or six times the price.

The Thrice-a-Week World is absolutely fair in its political news. Partisan bias is never allowed to affect its news columns, and Democrat and Republican alike can obtain in its pages truthful accounts of all the great political campaigns.

In addition to all the news, the Thrice-a-Week World furnishes the best serial fiction, elaborate market report and other features of interest.

The Thrice-a-Week World's regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and THE BOURBON NEWS together one year for $2.75.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $3.00.

SUCH IS THE

Cincinnati Enquirer

IN THE NEWSPAPER WORLD.

An indispensable adjunct to the man of business, the financier, manufacturer, producer, tradesman, farmer and laborer.

All need certain facts and knowledge of affairs that pertain to each ones calling in life.

More especially, now, during the great onward march our country is making towards wealth and power, science and literature, mechanism and products of the coil.

The wide-awake gathers dollars where legends earn cents. The enterprising newspaper that brings knowledge of the world's doings is the main prop and capital of the money-maker. Without the aid of a paper, like the ENQUIRER, one becomes the victim of his more enterprising neighbor.

The information the ENQUIRER brings you for a few cents costs thousands of dollars to obtain. You need the ENQUIRER, and we want your patronage because deserving of it.

The DAILY ENQUIRER is the best all around newspaper in the United States. The WEEKLY ENQUIRER ranks as one of the ablest weekly journals in the land, and serves the average town and country masses faithfully in a reliable and profitable manner at $1.00 a year, while the daily issue at $14.00 a year, is worth that sum every day to the business man. GEO. McNAMARA.

A Good Story.

A gentleman tells the News a good joke on the popular up-street grocerman, Col. Alex. Baird. A party called at his store several days ago and sold him some extra nice doves. Alex. examined them closely and wishing to let his most intimate friends have the chance of a purchase, he telephoned them, saying they were extra nice and were selling at the low price of 60 cents a dozen. The consequence was he had no trouble in disposing of them, but he was horrified when one of his customers acquainted him of the fact that the doves were not doves, but simply blackbirds. When you see Alex don't tell him that you saw this item.

October Brings the Fullness of Fall Readiness.

The Store sparkles with Newness and Brilliance, from top to bottom. No fashion shown in this section of Kentucky ever presented such a comprehensive array of all things interesting to women in matters of style and dress. A personal trip to the larger cities could not secure for the most favored woman a view of Ready-to-Wear apparel so comprehensive, or artistic, so original and beautiful as is presented by our Autumn Exhibition of Tailored Suits and Separate Coats.

Here is the (creme de la creme) of what the best Eastern designers have produced this season. Here are suits that would grace the most important dress function of the year—a collection, the equal of which has never before been gathered by any store in Central Kentucky.

Our big Cloak Department attracts hundreds of people from every section of the Blue Grass and the walking suits are praised and purchased with enthusiasm and women are gratified to know that the novelty suit bought at Kaufman, Straus & Co. is never duplicated for some other wearer.

But the Fashion Show is Endless.

The new Autumn Waists.
The Silk Negligees.
The new Neckwear for Women.
The new Silks and Dress Goods.
The new Veilings.

Let Us Merely Suggest that You See

The French Lingerie.
The Infants' Wear Things.
The new Handkerchiefs.
The new Kid Gloves.
The new Dress Trimmings.

Handsome Woolen Goods.

The long Coat Suits and all other Fall and Winter Suits for Women, for that matter, require a manish fabric to bring out their proper effect. Manufacturers have copied their designs from the men's goods and can scarcely produce them fast enough to meet the demand.

We have been so fortunate as to secure a large quantity of the real men's wools and thus provide at a low price fabrics far handsomer, more serviceable and that will tailor far better than any of the copy-fabrics that cost even more.

1903 Waistings. Marvelous Showing of Patterns.

English fancy Vestings beautifully mercerized in white and colored Jacquard effects. Natty designs in new Basket Weaves and Oxford. The range of pricing would take a lot of your time—you might not get to the store, so we'll jump to details. Beautiful mercerized vestings in stripes, plaids and dotted effects.

THE FLOWER ON THE TRAIL

My heart was weary yesterday.
I said: The day is long;
The busy hum of middle day
Shuts out the morning song;
That crowd of myriad hurrying feet
That crowd the upward slope
Have crushed the daisies into dust
And spent the dews of hope.

Then straight within the trampled path
The eager throng had trod
A little purple flower unclosed,
Nor pined for greener sod;
And one whose load had weighted sore
Looked down at it and smiled,
And dreamed of woodland trails he'd loved
To follow when a child.

So, still, when bitterness and fret
Would drown the melody,
Some little harmony steals in
To set the music free;
And we may keep till eventide
The morning joys we knew,
If ever in our hearts there live
The daisies and the dew.

CHAPTER VII. A REVELATION.

Once on the road, Bessemer and his men put spurs to their horses and galloped at a lively rate. Scouts had reported that the enemy was resting not far off. Bessemer, riding at the head of his mounted dragoons, the perspiration streaming down his red face, his eyes sparkling with anticipation of victory, his well-knit figure held erect in the saddle with British military stiffness, looked what he was—a combination of force and fire.

A turn in the road brought them in sight of a stream. The troopers gave a shout of triumph, broken by Bessemer's ringing command. In the water were nude men, bathing and swimming and sporting; along its edge, on the opposite side, were others, stripped to their waists, doing their "family" washing; while farther up the bank, under such shade as the sparse cotton-wood trees gave, were yet more, smoking or napping or eating. Most of them had their rifles beside them and their horses close by, but it availed them little.

Their cry of astonishment, chagrin and terror beat the hot air ere that of Bessemer's men died away. The naked wretches in the water were cut down before they could escape. Across the stream with eager haste, yet with perfect order, went the British, carrying all before them. In vain did Sumter start from his nap under one of his baggage-wagons, seize the nearest horse by its mane, saddleless and bridleless as it was, and try to rally his soldiers. The day was lost, and though the English colonel did not capture the "brigand," as he had boasted he would, he failed in little else he set out to do; and, indeed, few save Sumter himself escaped; not enough to warrant pursuit in that appalling heat.

The British returned the way they had come, exulting. Ever thoughtful of his troops, though he was himself most anxious to get back to the Ellery plantation and make that his stopping place for the night, Bessemer perceived that the heat and the sharp, hard ride since dawn had put considerable strain upon his men. Noting a large, comfortable-looking house setting some distance off the road, surrounded by a fine grove of trees, he asked, "Can you tell me, Edward, who lives yonder? Methinks it is a good place for an afternoon rest. Be they rebels or Tories, we shall become their uninvited guests, but I should like to learn which they are, that I may know whether to request or command."

"They are Tories," the boy answered eagerly, "as loyal to our king as my own family; and they will make you a gladly welcome, I am sure, as my people have." Bessemer perceived that under the summer flush which already covered his cheek there rose a richer wave of crimson.

"Aha, a sweetheart residing there," he thought, and with a sympathetic feeling turned his horse off the road and entered the gate, which stood conveniently open.

The house was not the imposing mansion the Ellery homestead was, but there was a warm southern welcome awaiting the intruders and a piece of news nightly to Bessemer's liking as well. A courier, riding hard to overtake the British commander, had likewise stopped there for rest, and scarce had the English colonel dismounted ere he handed him a dispatch from Cornwallis conveying the news of Gates' defeat.

There were three daughters of the house, all of them vivacious young women, as Bessemer soon discovered. "Oh, how delightful," they exclaimed, when the contents of the dispatch became known; "two great victories in one day; think of it!"

"Not in one day, ladies," Bessemer reminded them. "Gen. Cornwallis won his on the sixteenth."

"It does not matter; we hear of them the same day," the youngest persisted. "We assuredly should do something to celebrate so great a piece of fortune. If we could only have a dance," she added, with a suggestive look in the direction of her mother. "Mamma, why can't we induce Col. Bessemer and his officers to remain here for the night, and let us move the furniture from the big west room and have a dance there? Meanwhile, we could scour the neighborhood for girls. Edward, do you not think Jane would come?"

"Nay, I have a better plan," the lieutenant answered. "My mother made Col. Bessemer and myself promise ere we left that, if we routed Sumter in time, we should return home and spend the night there. They will be expecting us, and my father will be most grievously disappointed if we do not come; but why not have a dance on our lawn, as we did the summer before I went to England? Remember you, Peggy, what fun we had?"

"Fun? Oh, it was delicious," she answered, clasping her hands in ecstasy.

The plan pleased Bessemer better than the first proposed, and so it was arranged. He encamped his little army and most of his prisoners in one of the Ellery fields that evening. One of the prisoners he considered too valuable a capture to risk thus, and he besought Mrs. Ellery for a special room for him. As a prisoner, he was second only to Sumter himself.

"Now, dear madam," he said to his hostess, when these arrangements had been completed, "you must let me take the burden of your frolic to-night off your hands. I want this to be my festivity, given in honor of your neighboring Tory friends. 'Tis sufficient that you grant us the privilege of using your beautiful grounds, and I shall see to it that their loveliness is not marred."

Mrs. Ellery made a feint of reluctant concession to this, but in truth she was not sorry to wash her hands of all but the indoor preparations. She and Jane immediately set about seeing to the making of cakes, salads, and various confections to serve as refreshments.

Dressed in the freshest of the evening gowns left from her last visit to Charleston, Miss Ellery made a stately and handsome figure that evening as her mammy tucked a high, jeweled comb into her complicated coiffure and gave the last pats and touches to her costume.

Carriages began to roll up the avenue, and Jane descended the stairs that she might assist her stepmother and Col. Bessemer in receiving their guests.

None of Bessemer's enemies, and he had not few, could deny to him the qualities of taste and energy. The combination of these with that fine executive ability which enabled him always to get full service out of those under him had insured the success of his dance. The scene was beautiful. Among the trees strolled many pairs of lovers. Upon the rustic benches sat the chaperons and elderly guests, while the tarpsauls was gay with dancers moving in the stately measures of the minuet or reveling in the sprightlier movements of livelier dances.

There were beautiful women in plenty; southern women with bright eyes, animated faces and rich voices, dressed in the beautiful costumes of the day, the low-cut bodices, the flowing skirts, the hair waving over ears and caught by high, jeweled combs at the back, the pointed-toe slippers with flashing buckles, the flirtatious fans and cobwebbed handkerchiefs.

And as for the men, they were as gallant a lot as one would wish to see; the British officers smothered in red coats and gold lace; the civilians in knee-breeches, ruffled shirts and silk-lined coats.

Well pleased, Bessemer moved among his guests, dropping a pleasant word here, a merry jest there, but never quite losing sight of the younger hostess. He was aware that beneath the smiling graciousness with which she was assisting him there lurked a certain constraint, and he could well guess the cause.

One lady, rather exceeding the age when it was fashionable to be found still unmarried in those days, tapped the colonel on the arm with her fan as he was passing the bench where she sat.

"Tell me, dear colonel, how many prisoners did you take to-day? A marvelous number, from all I hear, and they do say you have a most mysterious one whom you have hid in Mrs. Ellery's garret. Nay, they go farther and state that it is Jane's lover, Godfrey Worthington. Poor Jane! It would go hard with her if ill were to befall Godfrey; they have been devoted to each other for so many years, though they do say her stepmother will not hear to the match. Tell me"—she dropped her voice to a confidential whisper—"is it really he you have?"

"Madam," Bessemer answered, gathering himself together, "I know naught of this Worthington of whom you speak, but I should say that the gentleman whom I hold as prisoner were more suited to be Miss Ellery's father than her lover, since he is a man fully 60 years of age, white-headed and gray-bearded. His name is Pierce."

"Pierce? Gen. Pierce? That horrid old rebel? Oh, how delightful that you have caught him. He is the very one who hung the Tories this summer."

"The very one, madam, and he shall pay for it."

He left her with a courteous bow, but his heart was not as light as when she had accosted him. What was this silly woman's chatter about a lover of Jane's? A Godfrey Worthington, forsooth? Of course, there was nothing in it; and yet he must be sure.

CHAPTER VIII.

AS THE DANCE WENT ON.

He drew aside pretty Peggy Winston, who was the occasion of the dance. "Do you know aught," he asked, "of a person by the name of Godfrey Worthington?"

"Godfrey Worthington? Oh, yes, I have known him all my life. Why, he and Jane are sweethearts. Have been for years, though they do say her mother does not approve the match, and was most glad when he espoused the rebel cause that she might have excuse for forbidding his coming here. Did you not know that you nearly captured him once? It was last May, when you stopped at Jane's for breakfast. He was coming to see her then, knowing, I suppose, that her father and mother were from home and thinking it a good opportunity to press his suit. He was almost up to the house before he discovered your soldiers."

Bessemer's brow grew black. So this was the young brave who had given him such a turn that fine spring morning?

"'Twas just like Godfrey," the girlish voice went on. "He is ever doing daring things. It is for that Jane loves him most, I think; though he is handsome too—oh, so handsome! I have heard it whispered often that Jane is no less a rebel at heart than he, but that she keeps it concealed to maintain peace with her stepmother and Edward."

"In truth, dear lady," Bessemer answered, "methinks report doth most grossly wrong Mistress Jane. None, I am sure, could be more loyal than she." But he tore himself away with some troublous thoughts running through his brain.

He sought an early opportunity to secure Jane by himself. "Come, sweet mistress," he said, "and take a stroll with me. I long to see if I cannot frighten away that pensive look upon your lovely face. What solemn thoughts have been playing havoc with your gaiety to-night?"

Jane looked at him in some surprise. "Have I not been gay?" she asked. "I thought I had. I know of no excuse for solemn musings unless, indeed, it be the solemnity of contrasts, and, in truth, I could not but think, as I watched this beautiful scene which you have conjured up to us to-night, what a medley our life now is. This afternoon, from my chamber window, I saw you take past our house the prisoners you had captured. Such sad, weary-faced men they were, many of them sorely wounded and scarce able to walk. My heart bled for them; yet here to-night we are in the midst of music and dancing, and they within ear-shot of it all. How cruel, how heartless it must seem to them."

"Methinks, madam," Bessemer answered, with a sneer born of his accumulated irritation, though policy warned him of the unwisdom of showing it, "methinks you show most wondrous solicitude for these rebels; and what think you I have heard to-night? That you are one at heart."

A merry look spread over Jane's face. If she could but keep him fencing with her upon the subject of Tory or rebel, she might prevent him from broaching the other subject she dreaded, for she was not yet prepared to say whether or not she would marry him.

"And so you have found me out?" she cried in mock dismay. "Ah, colonel, what punishment will you mete to me? Am I to be carried a captive on one of your prison ships now lying in Charleston harbor? They say they are most unpleasant places to reside in. Or am I to be hung, or what?"

Bessemer looked down at her, the gravity of his face softening before the sparkle in her eyes. "I do not know," he said, "what punishment could be great enough to mete out to one who withdraws so precious an ally from the king's cause; however, with your permission, fair lady, we will leave that most serious question for future consideration. Tell me rather what you think of the success of my plan for keeping in good humor Tory friends? Think you not this entertainment will make the ladies wish the harder that we might remain victors instead of those unmanly rebels and inspire our sympathizers among your neighbors with renewed ardor? Come, sweet enemy, give me your opinion."

"I doubt not you are right, colonel," she answered saucily. "Methinks I have heard that it did indeed take the fertile brain of your general and yourself to hatch schemes for keeping in line your Tory allies; but my Aunt Susannah says such is ever the handicap of a bad cause. The enthusiasm of its followers, lacking the fuel of righteousness, soon smoulders and must be constantly rekindled; while a good cause—well, she would remind you that the American patriots do not need a dance to inspire them."

"A neat speech, my beautiful rebel," he observed; "but is this all the reward I am to receive when I had far more in mind the hope of giving you enjoyment than of entertaining your Tory neighbors? Nay, do not turn away. Hear me out. This morning when I rode from your door my pulses throbbed with hope; but to-night something in your manner thwarts me. What has reared this barrier between us? Have you spent those few short hours in making of your heart a fortress? And, if so, what weapons can I use that will batter down its walls? Will patience and persistence do the work? Then, indeed, will I never despair."

"We all know," Jane observed, "that Col. Bessemer adds to his reputation as a gallant soldier that of an adroit strategist. I see he would fain betray the heart's owner into a confession of the strength or weakness of its forces; but methinks it would be wiser for the besieged to permit the assailant to determine for himself what weapons to use."

"Ah," said Bessemer, half bitterly, half questioningly, "if I could only be sure a certain rebel were not harbored within the walls of that heart, I might be more encouraged to make the attack."

"And is a loyal soldier of his majesty the king to be daunted by a rebel?" Jane asked. "Fie! I would not have thought it."

The Englishman's face darkened. "No, on my soul, is he not," he cried, "nor by ten thousand rebels. I accept your challenge, madam. The time is not far distant when I hope to prove myself a match for that rebel. Meanwhile, it behooves me to select one of yonder forest's stout trees for stringing up another rebel now in my keeping. By daybreak, I trust, we shall be rid of him and leave his dangling body as a warning to others of his ilk."

The brightness died out of the girl's face. "You cannot mean that you will hang that poor old gentleman who is now a captive in our garret? I saw him when they brought him to the house this afternoon, and I thought his face most sweet and noble, while I have ever heard him spoken of as brave."

"Aye, brave enough; but 'poor old gentleman' scarce fits so bloodily-handled a wretch. I have not forgot that three of our allies were strung up by his command four weeks ago, and, by my faith, their death shall be avenged."

"But they were marauders, who plundered dwellings and murdered women and children. At least, so I have heard. It will not bring back their lives to take another life, and surely it were better to be merciful and teach these despised rebels the justice and moderation of their opponents than to set them an example of cruelty and vengeance."

SHIRTS GROW ON TREES.

What an Old Sailor Said Could Be Found on South Sea Islands.

"Shirts grow on trees where I came from," said the old sailor, according to the Philadelphia Record. "How so, shipmate?" a pale clerk asked.

The sailor emptied his glass and wiped his mouth with the back of his hand. "I'm a-speakin'," he said, "of the South seas. You know them islands over there?"

"Sure," said the clerk.

"Well, that's where I mean that shirts grow on trees. There's a kind of a willow tree on them islands with a soft, flexible bark. A native selects a tree with a trunk that's just a little bigger round than what he is. He makes a ring with his knife around the trunk through the bark, and he makes another ring four foot below. Then, with a slit of the knife, he draws the bark off, the same as a boy does in makin' a willow whistle, and he's got a fine, durable shirt. All he needs to do is to dry it out, make two holes for the arms, and put a lacin' in the back to draw it together."

"In the spring of the year the shirts are gathered. Men and women both go out at that time to look for trees that fit them. These bark shirts are treated so as to be soft and flexible. They don't look bad. Gosh, hang'd if they look bad at all, for shirts that grow on trees."

Motto Worth Adopting.

Admiral Sir John Fisher, who replied for the British navy to a toast at a recent Royal Academy banquet, said in the course of his speech: "I always think on these occasions of the first time I went to sea on board my first ship, a little sailing two-decker, and I saw inscribed in great big gold letters the one word 'Silence.' Underneath was another good motto, 'Deeds, not words.' I have put that into every ship I have commanded since. This leads me to another motto, which is better still. When I was commander-in-chief in the Mediterranean I went to inspect a small destroyer, only 250 tons, but with such pride and swagger that she might have been 16,000 tons. The lieutenant in command took me round. She was in beautiful order and I came aft to the wheel and saw there 'Ut Veniant Omnes.' 'Hallo!' I said, 'what the deuce is that?' Saluting me, he said, 'Let 'em all come.' That was not boasting, that was the sense of conscious efficiency—the sense that permeates the whole fleet—and I used to think, as the admiral, it would be irresistible, provided the admiral was up to the mark."

THE CLUTCH OF CHANCE.

"The race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong;... but time and chance happeneth to them all."—Ecc. IX:11.

For the man who wins, there is pomp and pride, And the laurel wreath, and the cheer, beside; And for him who fights but in fighting, falls, There are echoes still of the trumpet call— But there is no balm in his bitter lot, If he meets defeat with his fight unfought.

There are sore defeats that are all unknown, And they send their gloom to the proudest throne; And they plunge their shade on the humblest life— For they bring no stress and they bring no strife; By a time or chance is the loser caught, And he knows defeat ere his fight is fought.

There are singers mute—and their hearts are wrung, And their souls are thrilled with the songs unsung; There are men who dreamed of a picture fair— But the hand is still and the canvas bare; And the others, too, with the goals unsought— They have seen defeat with their fight unfought.

If a man goes down with his sword aflash, And has heard the lance and the armor crash— If he loses then, he will shed no tears; He hath dealt his blows, he has heard the cheers; But is soul must shrink from he knows not what When he meets defeat with his fight unfought.

MISMATED

TWO men and two women, two romances and two tragedies—and the sequel, that's all.

But stay, perhaps it was four romances and four tragedies. Judge of that for yourself from the story.

It was all natural enough—the most natural thing in the world, and very strange and unconventional, too. Two splendid young fellows, two attractive girls—all comrades from childhood. One young fellow an artist by nature and environment, by heredity and cultivation; the other a matter-of-fact boy gifted with an allotment of common sense which amounted, if he only had known it, to positive genius; and two girls, one a beauty of so rare perfection that she would fill every aspiration of the most artistic mind—form, features, coloring, expression, all so perfect that she would have been an ideal model for any painter, sculptor or poet; the other a peculiar sort of girl, with none of the conventional attributes of beauty, irregular—even homely—of feature and complexion, and so far devoid of attractions and graces as to repel rather than attract admirers and friends, except that she was lithe of body and springy of step—but gifted with a fire of eye and a vivacity of movement and of manner that compelled attention and admiration—even while the keen analysis and biting sarcasm of her original mind repelled it. With the one there was the attraction of physical perfection, with the other the more insidious influence of essential vitality.

Of course, Clarence Cole, artist that he was, was enamored of Gracia, with her soft, correct lines and rich glowing color. And equally, of course, John Bedwell, became the slave of Alice Beattie.

And here lies the story. For years all four had been chums and companions. Clarence and Gracia had been accepted juvenile sweethearts, as also had John and Alice. So, in the natural order of things there were two weddings, and the four young people were paired off in matrimony as they had been in sweethearts, took a wedding trip together and settled down to live happy ever afterward after the manner of heroes and heroines in all well-regulated stories.

And now comes the strange part of it all. Odd as it may seem, after these two well-paired young couples had been married for a twelvemonth and had lived most happily, it all began to pall upon all four of them—in a way.

For the first few months Clarence lived in a perfect dream of bliss. All of the perfection of Gracia's physical perfection sank into his artistic consciousness. And Gracia—well, what more had she to desire than this handsome and talented consort—perfect in form, manner and devotion and advancing all the time in the estimation of the world?

And yet there was not the most perfect harmony of life and impulse with these two—and as it may seem, Clarence sought, alas, in vain—beneath the surface perfection of Gracia's wonderful beauty the real attributes of character promised so abundantly. And he found them not—alas and attack, he found them not! He saw all the promises turn to ashes and finally suspected that his beautiful wife was but a whitened sepulcher—from his point of view. Of course, he asked too much, being an artist.

And Gracia? The long months brought to her also the bitterness of dead leaves. Her handsome and talented husband did not yield to her the adoration and happiness she had so warmly craved. She could not guess why, but there was something lacking—something real and essential to her nature. As the months went by he appeared more and more to her as a promise than a reality. She was not at all an idealist; she wanted to see and feel—not dream.

And so they drifted apart and came almost to despise one another, because, alas, they understood one another not at all.

And the other couple—John and Alice—life went almost as badly with them. Alice, with her superabundant intelligence and vitality, grew to feel as the months went by that her sturdy and commonplace husband did not understand her. She appreciated his sterling worth and his unyielding reliability, but she could always touch bottom—there was no depth to explore. Her unconquerable vitality rebelled at the hard-and-fast bounds she found in his character. She adored his manly physiognomy and his sturdy character, and she told herself again and again that he was the sort of man to tie to—one of the salt of the earth; but her unquenchable spirit rebelled at bounds and rules, and it got so she fairly hated figures, facts and reason. She longed for flights into the mystic realm of idealism, into those realms where vital forces could override rules and methods.

Well, you can see for yourself that John could not understand anything of that sort. Honest, conscientious, sterling John could move only along the lines of his own understanding. And he resented, in a manly and honest way, the breach Alice had placed between them. He had disregarded no obligation, no duty, no sacrifice. He had been altogether unselfish and faithful, and somehow he had not succeeded in welding his life with that of his wife. His hopes, his ideals had been shattered.

Now, mind you, all this time, while these thoughts and ideas had been percolating through the minds of these four simpletons, they had, all of them, been constant companions and friends.

So it was that the artistic mind of Clarence began to appreciate the depths and wealth of the nature of Alice—contrasting it to the narrowness and poverty of that of Gracia. And by that same token Alice awoke one day all of a quiver with an appreciation of the tremendous sweep of the nature of Clarence along the lines of her own aspirations.

It was a dangerous discovery, and as it came to these two people it nearly floored them.

The harder they fought the more tense the new situation grew. To the soul of each the commonplace qualities of wife and husband grew more oppressive as they realized in each other the joys of perfect appreciation and perfect fellowship. The end was certain as the multiplication table, and finally they gave up the struggle for conventionalality and honor and resolved to shatter their vows and their reputations, to give up kindred, associates and home and wreck the structure they had been building since childhood and flee to an unknown country, there to begin a new life in which their mutual love would be ample compensation for all they left.

Brave in their resolution, but guilty in the consciousness of the great wrong they were doing their loyal consorts, the two slipped into a close carriage on the evening of the 16th of June, 1899, and were driven rapidly to the depot, where they boarded a train bound for New York, there to sail for European shores, where they had planned to begin their new life.

In the meantime both John Bedwell and Gracia Cole had felt the widening breach in their respective homes, although neither had the slightest suspicion of the state of affairs between Clarence Cole and Alice Bedwell. Being thrown together much, Gracia began to take a new delight in the society of the sturdy John Bedwell. She could understand his mental attitude, his plain, everyday talk, his natural human methods, whereas Clarence's high-strung, artistic impulses and idealities oppressed and bewildered her. And John, disappointed and puzzled at his failure to understand Alice and weld his life with hers, and resenting the attitude of inferiority she placed him in, looked with new eyes upon Gracia and realized her surpassing beauty. And as he talked more and more to her and found that she understood so thoroughly his thoughts and aspirations, his heart warmed toward her. Finally he awakened with a start to the realization that he loved her and that his love for Alice was dead. And presently she found her own heart had gone out to John. So when the fires of the new love had attained fever heat both were more ready to obey their impulses than the others, for they had not the condescending pity—rather a sting of injured pride.

John methodically wound up his business affairs and looked up a new location where he could reestablish himself safely, and it came to pass that on the evening of June 16, 1899, he entered a close carriage with Gracia and they were driven rapidly to the depot, where they boarded a train bound for San Francisco, there to take steamer for Australia.

The two trains stood on the same track, the engines heading in opposite directions. Both left at exactly 11 o'clock. Shortly before that hour the two couples, who had left the same depot on their wedding journeys only two short years before, and who were now fleeing from each other, passed through the gate but a moment or two apart, boarded the separate trains and were whirled away in opposite directions as fast as the steam monsters could carry them.

The strange part of the affair is that neither couple ever knew that the other had eloped, and the friends of both had no suspicion of anything wrong, but wondered deeply at the sudden and mysterious departure of the four.

BIG PRICES TO HORSESHOERS.

Expert Blacksmiths Who Work for Racing Stables Receive Large Salaries.

Robert Bonner was the man who started fancy prices for horseshoeing when he paid $100 for shoeing Dexter. Owners of big stables to-day pay far more than that for shoeing a horse, but they don't pay it to a man keeping a blacksmith shop, and doing public business, as Mr. Bonner did. The money goes in the way of salaries and presents to expert blacksmiths who work only for owners of big stables, and who travel with crack racing horses wherever they go. Some of these blacksmiths get $12,000 a year and expenses, besides a liberal present, if the owner has had a lucky year, says the New York Times.

The blacksmith of a crack stable is constantly asked for cast-off shoes from crack horses by persons who want to gild them and frame them, "just for luck."

When it comes down to the useful truck horse, there is a very different story. The price for shoeing him is fixed by the Blacksmiths' union at two dollars. That is for an average horse, with a shoe weighing about two pounds. But some of the big truck horses around the docks require shoes weighing from three to four pounds. At the present price of iron blacksmiths cannot afford to shoe horses like that for less than $2.50 or $3. When drivers refuse to pay the sum, the blacksmith finds that he is very busy. Sometimes the driver will wait half a day, and then not get served at the union price. If he moves along to another shop, he finds they are prepared for him. Many blacksmiths' shops have telephones nowadays, or there is a pay station near by where the smith can send word along the line. Blacksmiths accommodate one another in this way. If the driver complains to the union about the only comfort he gets is a promise to investigate.

It is not generally known that blacksmiths' shops in New York are open Sunday mornings from eight to ten o'clock. This is for the benefit of horses that cast shoes on Saturday night, or men who cannot spare their horses during the week to get new shoes or have old ones tightened up. On the East and West side of the city, below Forty-second street to Cherry Hill, blacksmiths' shops are as busy as barbers' shops early Sunday mornings.

The blacksmiths and truck drivers have a common grievance, which they are trying to have their district leaders lug into the municipal campaign, if possible. Often a horse casts a shoe in the street. If he is kept working he is likely to go lame and have lockjaw. It is the driver's duty to know the nearest blacksmith's shop, and go there at once. If the driver hasn't the money to shoe the horse, the blacksmith is willing to take the number of his truck and send the bill to the firm. But it is necessary, always, in such cases, for the driver to leave his wagon, with his other horse, in the street. Then, in nine cases out of ten, a police officer comes along, and, under the street ordinances, takes his wagon away. Blacksmiths and drivers are making a common cause to get this ordinance repealed.

THE CHIPMUNK AT HOME.

Spends Most of the Autumn in Storing Away Food for the Winter.

The little chipmunk, which we see scampering along the stone walls everywhere, is one of the very prettiest of our four-footed animals. By reason of his beautiful markings of black, buff and chestnut he is sometimes called the painted squirrel, and because he seldom leaves the ground for the trees he is also known as the ground-squirrel, says Woman's Home Companion. He is one of the most provident of animals, spending most of the autumn in storing away food to last him through the winter. First of all, though, he digs a long, winding tunnel in the earth, with several short branches, which he uses as storehouses. Into these he carries nuts of all kinds, wheat, buckwheat, grass-seed and any other available food which will keep. He carries these things, a few at a time, in two pouches—one in each cheek—and when you see him homeward bound on an autumn morning, you will notice that his face looks very much swollen. Watch him a little while and you will see him enter his burrow by a small round hole, close to an old stump, perhaps. In a few moments he will have stowed his load of provisions, and will appear at the doorway with the swelling all gone from his face.

When the weather becomes cold in November, the chipmunk retires to his well-stocked burrow and sleeps away a large part of the winter, waking up at intervals to stretch his limbs and to sample the good things he spent so much time in gathering. When the warm days toward the close of February herald the approach of spring, the little ground-squirrel comes to the door of his home to sniff the fresh air and to warm himself in the strengthening sunlight.

Pay Ore in Gold Mines. A few years ago quartz mines that would not yield $50 to the ton were despised and rejected as unprofitable. Now, with improved methods of extraction, ore containing as low as $1 a ton pays dividends to the stockholders.

The latest work of reference projected is an "International Encyclopedia of Journalism," which is to be edited by Alfred Harmsworth, of the London Daily Mail; Maurice Ernst, of the Neues Wiener Tageblatt; and William Hill, of the Westminster Gazette. It will be written in English, but will deal with the origin and development of journalism in all countries. There will be special articles on all phases of journalism, editing, news-gathering, ownership, business management, and so on, and character sketches of eminent journalists will be included.

Prof. Goldwin Smith, of Toronto, who has just completed his eightieth year, was the companion, adviser and coadjutor of the men who were most powerful in shaping history and directing English thought during the period in the nineteenth century when England rose to its highest intellectual elevation. Age has dealt gently with the doctor, whose erect and faultlessly attired figure always attracts much attention in the city of his residence. His splendid home there, surrounded by well-appointed grounds and having the appearance of an old English manor house, is the center of a congenial circle of literary men and women.

Needed a Knife.

Prof. George Lincoln Burr, of Cornell, who lately toured New England on his bicycle in order to gather facts about witchcraft, is an authority on the history of superstition and persecution, and is also an indefatigable wheelman. Prof. Burr, with his bicycle, has penetrated many primitive and secluded parts of the United States.

From these journeys, says an eastern exchange, he returns with little stories that are now quaint, now strange, now humorous. A story of the latter sort concerns a visit to Tennessee.

"I arrived one night at a mountaineer's cabin," said the professor, "and asked for shelter for the night. The good people were very hospitable. They gave me a comfortable bed and an excellent meal."

"While I was eating the meal my host watched me narrowly to see that I had everything I wanted. He kept ordering his wife to fill my glass, to bring me more bread, and so forth. Finally, when I began to eat a piece of apple pie, he exclaimed in an indignant tone:

"Jane, why don't you bring the gentleman a knife? Don't you see him here trying to eat his pie with a fork?"

Might Mad Woman.

A cable train was scooting down State street as fast as the wire rope could drag it. The gripman was rattling off "Hiawatha" on the gong, and just ahead a woman, who was almost as broad as she was tall, had preempted the track. The gripman released the hold on the cable and switched from "Hiawatha" to a break-down jig, but the woman never stirred. The next instant the street car "jumped" the preempted claim in the street, and 250 pounds of mighty mad woman was taking a ride on the fender. The gripman stopped the cable train, leaped over the dashboard of the car, and expected to find a dead woman. But she wasn't dead. Indeed, she was sitting there adjusting her hat. When she caught sight of the gripman she ground her teeth together, leaned forward, shook her fist at him, and said: "Blame you, anyhow!" A minute later she was up and away without saying another word.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

ALL TIRED OUT.

The weary, worn-out, all-tired feelings come to everybody who taxes the kidneys. When the kidneys are over-worked they fail to perform the duties nature has provided for them to do. When the kidneys fail dangerous diseases quickly follow. Urinary disorders, diabetes, dropsy, rheumatism, Bright's disease.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure all kidney and bladder ills. Read the following case:

Veteran Joshua Heller, 706 South Walnut Street, Urbana, Ill., says: "In the fall of 1899 after getting Doan's Kidney Pills at Cunningham Bros.' drug store in Champaign and taking a course of the treatment I told the readers of this paper that they had relieved me of kidney trouble, disposed of a lame back with pain across my loins and beneath the shoulder blades. During the interval which has elapsed I have had occasion to resort to Doan's Kidney Pills when I noticed warnings of an attack. On each and every occasion the results obtained were just as satisfactory as when the pills were first brought to my notice. I just as emphatically indorse the preparation to-day as I did over two years ago."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Heller will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Medical advice free—strictly confidential. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all druggists, price 50 cents per box.

CHOLERA CURE

FOR HOGS AND POULTRY.

Farmers, you need no longer fear to raise and feed Hogs. We not only claim to cure Cholera, but we guarantee to prevent any such disease from breaking out among your Hogs or Poultry, if our remedy is used as directed. It is also fine for Brood Sows before farrowing, being a good blood medicine, which places them in a healthy condition. You cannot afford to be without this remedy if you expect to raise and feed Hogs, as you will more than make the price of the medicine in the extra gain in your hogs, and then you can rest assured they will have no disease. If they do we will refund the money. Write for testimonials.
